Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The NBI Diversified Emerging Markets Equity Fund's investment objective is to provide long-term capital growth. The Fund invests directly, or through investments in securities of other mutual funds, in a portfolio composed mainly of common shares of issuers located in emerging markets.

The portfolio's sub-advisors incorporate a combination of investment strategies to achieve their investment objectives. Newton Investment Management (North America) Limited's strategy follows a fundamental bottom-up security selection approach within a global thematic investment framework, taking a long-term investment horizon to drive capital returns. The strategy is a high conviction, fundamentally driven, benchmark agnostic approach with an emphasis on quality and good governance. Goldman Sachs Assets Management, L.P. incorporates a rigorous research process combining qualitative insights and information technology, to process and analyze significant amounts of company and market data. The research process is designed to add value through security selection and to manage risk. In selecting securities, Goldman Sachs Assets Management, L.P. analyzes data pertaining to high-quality business models, poor fundamental stock valuations, market themes and trends, and market sentiment. Goldman Sachs Assets Management L.P. then uses a quantitative process to select and weigh portfolio securities. The approach aims to achieve a well-diversified portfolio with a focus on risk management.

Risks

The global investment risk of the Fund remains as described in the simplified prospectus or any amendments thereto and Fund Facts.

Results of Operations

For the twelve-month period ended December 31, 2020, the NBI Diversified Emerging Markets Equity Fund's Advisor Series units returned 36.06% compared to 16.23% for the Fund's benchmark, the MSCI Emerging Markets Index (CAD). Unlike the benchmark, the Fund's performance is calculated after fees and expenses. Please see the Past Performance section for the returns of all of the Fund's series, which may vary mainly because of fees and expenses.

Certain series of the Fund, as applicable, may make distributions at a rate determined by the manager. This rate may change from time to time. If the aggregate amount of distributions in such series exceeds the portion of net income and net realized capital gains allocated to such series, the excess will constitute a return of capital. The manager does not believe that the return of capital distributions made by such series of the Fund have a meaningful impact on the Fund's ability to implement its investment strategy or to fulfill its investment objective.

The Fund's net asset value rose by 35.32% over the period, from $1.303 billion as at December 31, 2019 to $1.763 billion as at December 31, 2020. The increase stemmed mainly from market fluctuations.

The year started positively, but the strong emerging-market equity index gains that had accumulated by mid-January started to reverse as fears grew over the potential impact of the outbreak of the coronavirus in China. By the end of March, emerging markets, along with global markets, had suffered substantial falls, as coronavirus spread across the world and many countries went into lockdown, essentially mothballing large parts of the global economy. In recognition of the worsening economic conditions brought on by the global pandemic, many global authorities intervened with an unprecedented level of stimulus.

Over the second quarter of the year, emerging markets staged a remarkable recovery, almost recovering the first quarter losses, as market watchers largely shrugged off stark economic data that included the Chinese economy declining for the first time in almost 50 years and South Korea experiencing the largest fall in GDP since the 2008 global financial crisis. Monetary authorities continued their exceptional support to markets with the U.S. Federal Reserve purchasing corporate debt directly and China announcing the largest economic rescue plan in its history, to support businesses affected by COVID-19.

Largely driven by improving data in China, emerging markets continued to rise in the third quarter, albeit at a more modest pace, before accelerating again during the final quarter of 2020 as investors looked beyond near-term challenges, with investor sentiment boosted by a raft of positive vaccine news. Additional fiscal support was also forthcoming, not least the much debated and long-awaited $900 billion second U.S. stimulus package agreed towards the end of December.

In this context, the NBI Diversified Emerging Markets Equity Fund outperformed its benchmark in 2020. Outperformance was due in large part to exposure to companies in the electric vehicle supply chain. It has been a landmark year for electric vehicles exposed stocks as various central government 'green' initiatives have helped to propel sales to record levels. Korean battery maker Samsung SDI and lithium producers Livent and Orocobre all outperformed.

Detractors from performance came largely from stocks not held by the Fund. The absence of large index constituent Samsung Electronics, which we the portfolio manager has decided to exit in early March, had the biggest impact.

Recent Developments

During 2020, the portfolio manager added several new positions such as LONGi Green Energy Technology, Flat Glass and Xinyi Solar which are Chinese manufacturers of solar-energy products. The portfolio manager also initiated positions in Bilibili, Elite Material and HDFC Bank.

During the same period, the portfolio manager exited the following positions: Edelweiss, 51job, CVC, British American Tobacco, Laureate Education, Delivery Hero, Samsung Electronics and Applied Materials.

The Fund's exposure in the Consumer sectors has reduced, and exposures in the Information Technology and Materials sectors have increased by a similar degree. Despite the reduced weighting, the Fund is most overweight in the Consumer Discretionary sector as the investment team believes that rising consumer wealth is the key driver of emerging market growth for the long-term investable horizon. The Fund is most underweight in the Energy sector, with no holdings in this sector due to low conviction in the long-term prospects of these volatile businesses.

In the shorter term, it should be supportive for emerging-market equities if there is a continuation of the current backdrop of a weaker U.S. dollar, supportive monetary and fiscal policies in major economies, vaccine rollouts, and related anticipation of a meaningful global economic recovery.

The portfolio manager is more comfortable highlighting the longer-term opportunities in emerging markets. These are based upon relatively higher levels of income growth, rapid increases in product penetration and scope for industry consolidation. The portfolio manager believes that there is a unique opportunity for emerging-market companies that are well exposed to reliable secular growth trends, and that can exploit this opportunity in a superior manner to their peers by virtue of their differentiated customer offering and execution. Accordingly, emerging-market investors that can identify the right growth themes and companies should be well rewarded over the long term.

On April 30, 2020, the Fund's independent review committee (the "IRC") was reduced to three members when Jacques Valotaire and Jean-François Bernier resigned as IRC members. On July 1, 2020, the Fund's IRC was increased to four members when Marie Desroches was appointed as IRC member.

⁽²⁾ Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase or decrease from operations is based on the average number of units outstanding over the accounting period.
