Management Discussion of Fund Performance

Investment Objective and Strategies

The NBI Preferred Equity Income Fund's investment objective is to generate high dividend income while focusing on capital preservation. This Fund invests directly, or through investments in securities of other mutual funds, in a portfolio mainly composed of preferred shares of Canadian companies and other income generating Canadian equities.

The portfolio manager conducts fundamental research, but will also consider quantitative and technical factors. The portfolio securities selection is based on knowledge of the company, its industry and its growth prospects. An extensive credit analysis for each security and an assessment of the risk profiles, the relative performance and the general conditions are completed in order to confirm the selection and the relative weight of each portfolio security. It is expected that investments in foreign securities will not exceed approximately 10% of the Fund's assets.

Risks

The global investment risk of the Fund remains as described in the simplified prospectus or any amendments thereto and Fund Facts.

Results of Operations

For the twelve-month period ended December 31, 2022, the NBI Preferred Equity Income Fund's Investor Series units returned -18.99% compared to -18.08% for the Fund's benchmark, the S&P/TSX Preferred Share Index (CAD). Unlike the benchmark, the Fund's performance is calculated after fees and expenses. Please see the Past Performance section for the returns of all of the Fund's series, which may vary mainly because of fees and expenses.

The Fund's net asset value dropped by 27.18% over the period, from $813.88 million as at December 31, 2021 to $592.67 million as at December 31, 2022.

This decline stemmed mainly from market fluctuations and net redemptions by unitholders of the Fund.

It was a volatile start to the year in financial markets as inflation and the expectation of monetary policy tapering was at the forefront of investors' concerns. Furthermore, geopolitical tensions between Russia and Ukraine had a significant effect on asset valuations during the first half of 2022. Coming off a strong 2021, credit spreads in preferred shares had hit a historical low and therefore any increase in risk had the potential to dampen investor enthusiasm and push prices lower. Performance did not improve in the second half.

Central bankers remained firmly committed on monetary tightening to combat inflation while the geopolitical tensions in Europe seem nowhere near a possible de-escalation or solution. Credit spreads continue to widen putting downward pressure on asset valuations including preferred shares. The market tested new lows in Q4, exacerbated by tax-loss selling pressure in December. The combination of 4 difficult quarters culminated in the worst year for the asset class in over a decade.

The first most impactful reason why preferred shares have produced negative returns in 2022 is credit spread widening. Because they are junior in the capital structure to bonds, preferred shares exhibit more sensitivity to economic downturns. This sensitivity is also amplified by the fact that preferred shares do not have a fixed maturity. So far this year, credit spreads have widened on average by 175 basis point, approaching levels witnessed during the economic downturns of 2015 (O&G price collapse) and 2020 (pandemic).

The second reason to highlight, and it has contributed to credit spread widening as mentioned previously, is the increased supply in the LRCN and Institutional $1K preferred share market. Canadian Banks were faced with a delicate situation of managing a capital transition plan away from 25$ preferred shares into new Additional Tier 1 Capital instruments. However, they have constantly had to issue new instruments at higher prevailing spreads, making the secondary market look expensive compared to these new issues.

Under these circumstances, the Fund underperformed its benchmark for the period, mainly due to its overweight in Fixed Perpetuals, the worst-performing structure. In terms of structures, the best performers on a total return basis were Floaters (-10.9%) followed by Fixed Resets (-20.0%) and finally Fixed Perpetuals (-23.2%).

Recent Developments

Patient investors will begin to feel the tailwind of higher dividends in the coming quarters. The benefit from higher interest rates on preferred share dividends (Fixed Resets) is only felt gradually over time. The positive effect for investors' cash flows is very real but patience is required because Fixed Resets only have their dividends reset once every five years. In the near-term, current yields may look thin compared to other fixed income products, but increases will happen over time.

The Fund managers continue to monitor the supply/demand environment for preferred shares as they believe that an equilibrium must be achieved before we can expect the market to rebound in a sustainable fashion. An important factor influencing performance has been the outflow of capital from the asset class. Using Preferred Share ETFs inflows/outflows as a proxy for demand, the portfolio manager estimates that again in the fourth quarter, the market experienced an outflow of approximately $87M.

Following the sharp selloff year-to-date, the outlook for preferred share returns has improved. With a positive rate backdrop, the setup is encouraging considering credit spreads have widened considerably in 2022. As macroeconomic risk dissipates (geopolitical conflicts, inflation, Central Bank tightening) the fund managers believe preferred shares offer attractive risk/reward potential at these levels. However, we are looking for the balance in supply and demand of preferred shares to improve before we become more constructive on the asset class.

The portfolio manager remains comfortable holding an overweight in fixed-rate perpetuals as their fundamentals are strong: high spreads, limited and shrinking supply with sustained demand because of the relatively high after-tax yield compared to other fixed-income securities available in Canada. Holding a diversified mix of fixed-rate perpetuals and fixed-resets is essential while navigating an unpredictable interest rate environment. Holdings of fixed-resets act as a natural hedge against fixed-rate perpetuals since they tend to outperform in a rising rate environment, while the latter should stand out when rates fall.

On April 30, 2022, the Fund's independent review committee (the "IRC") was reduced to three members when Robert Martin resigned as IRC member. On May 1, 2022, the Fund's IRC was increased to four members when Line Deslandes was appointed as IRC member. However, on September 30, 2022, the Fund's IRC was reduced to three members when Line Deslandes resigned as IRC member.

On May 20, 2022, NBI discontinued the purchase offering of deferred sales charge and low sales charge purchase options for all new investments, including purchases made through systematic plans in all Canadian jurisdictions. Investors who purchased units under these sales charge options will continue to be subject to the redemption fee schedules under which they were purchased.

The administration fees are equal to a specified percentage of the net asset value of each series of the Fund, calculated and paid in the same manner as the Fund's management fees. The variable operating expenses payable by the Manager include, but are not limited to: transfer agency and recordkeeping costs; custodial costs; accounting and valuation fees; audit fees and legal fees; costs of preparing and distributing financial reports, simplified prospectuses, annual information forms, Fund Facts, continuous disclosure material and other securityholder communications; and costs of trustee services relating to registered tax plans, as applicable.

The Manager may, from time to time and at its sole discretion, decide to absorb a portion of a series' management fees, administration fees or Fund costs.

As described under the heading Management Fees, the Fund pays annual management fees to NBII as consideration for its services.

Furthermore, the investment decisions must represent the business judgment of the securities advisor, uninfluenced by considerations other than the best interest of the Fund and must achieve a fair and reasonable result for the Fund.

Under the Distribution heading, expenses include the broker's compensation consisting of the maximum annual trailer fees and sales commissions paid to brokers. Under the Other heading, the fees relate mainly to investment management, investment advisory services, general administration and profit. Past Performance

The performance of each series of the Fund is presented below and calculated as at December 31 of each year. It assumes that all distributions made in the periods shown were reinvested in additional securities and does not take into account sales, redemption charges, distributions, or optional charges that would have reduced returns. Past performance of a series of a Fund does not necessarily indicate how it will perform in the future.

Annual Returns

The bar charts indicate the performance for each the Fund's series in existence greater than one year during the years shown, and illustrate how the performance has changed from year to year. They show, in percentage terms, how much an investment made on January 1 (or made commencing from the start of the series) would have grown or decreased by December 31 of that year, in the case of the Annual management report of fund performance, or by June 30, in the case of the Interim management report of fund performance.

⁽⁴⁾ This information is derived from the Fund's Annual Audited Financial Statements. The net assets per unit presented in the financial statements might differ from the net asset value calculated for fund pricing purposes. The differences are explained in the notes to the financial statements.

⁽²⁾ Net assets and distributions are based on the actual number of units outstanding at the relevant time. The increase or decrease from operations is based on the average number of units outstanding over the accounting period.
